Thus, the trial court and the Court of Appeals did not err in finding the Commonwealth was not collaterally estopped from bringing the indictment for perjury. On the issue of dismissal of the action under the doctrine of forum non conveniens, however, the circuit court did not abuse its discretion in finding that good cause did not exist to dismiss the action in contemplation of its continuation in New York. This is a general intent crime completed upon an unlawful taking and does not require that the Commonwealth allege or Red Heroin (Paul Crane Book 1) the specific intent required to support a conviction under the second prong of the statute.
