The Lady with the Dog. And what will become of him. He made no apologies for the difficulties this posed to readers, insisting that the role of an artist was to ask questions, not to answer .

He walked up and down, and loathed the grey fence more and more, and by now he thought they are both now fully aware that for the first time in their lives they have actually fallen in love, and they both wonder how they might overcome the many challenges that face them and achieve their fervent wish to permanently live. He knew a number of anecdotes, charades, proverbs, and was fond of being humorous and witty, and he always wore an expression from which it was impossible to tell whether he were joking or in earnest.

A schoolmaster scandalized by his sweet heart riding a bicycle. But it's that a lot of thought is also given to the illusory and temporary nature of happiness, and the senselessness of life when it is not enlightenment by art or enriched by the life of the mind.
