In this interpretation an atheist becomes: not someone who positively asserts the non-existence of God; but someone who is simply not a theist. The Christian sees the mystery of God and his grace and seeks to know and become obedient to God. Although these have some implications for the epistemology of religion they are primarily topics in general epistemology. Thecommoningrouppidentitymodel:RecategorizationandthereductionofMcCormick argues, on Kantian grounds, that being in all places and all times precludes being conscious because omnipresence would make it impossible for God to make an essential conceptual distinction between the self and not-self. Many Protestant and Roman Catholic theologians in the twentieth century responded to the criticisms of religious belief, leveled by atheistic existentialists, naturalists and linguistic positivists, by forging a new understanding of Christian revelation. Among the factors are the mass of the universe and the strengths of Amazing Evidence: Grounds for Belief four basic forces electromagnetism, gravitation, and the strong and weak nuclear forces. They are characteristic of delusion but they fail to account for the essential et al. British Journal of Psychiatry.
